

History of United Missionary Baptist Church of KC

The United Missionary Baptist Church (UMBC) of Kansas City began in January 1975 when Deacon Henry Brown gathered 107 Christians to form The Independent Mission. Under the supervision of Rev. A. M. Hudson, they organized and were temporarily allowed to hold services rent-free at Grace Assembly Church.

The mission officially became the United Missionary Baptist Church on March 18, 1975. In June 1975, Rev. James L. Davis, Sr. was called as the church's first Pastor. Under his leadership, the church grew, and on April 25, 1976, the 250 members moved into their new church building at 2745 Campbell Street. The church flourished numerically and spiritually, forming multiple choirs and making various building improvements, including purchasing property for parking and a retreat house. The cornerstone was laid in 1982. Pastor Davis served until his resignation in May 1985.

Following a period of decline, Rev. Robert Earl Watson served briefly, resigning in August 1994. In November 1994, Rev. Robert L. Graves became the third Pastor. During his 17-year tenure, the church underwent significant remodeling, including converting a storage area into the Fellowship Hall and remodeling the pulpit and choir loft. Pastor Graves resigned in 2011.

In March 2012, Rev. Michael Patton was called as the fourth Pastor. Improvements under his leadership included a grand piano, a new sound system, and the dedication of the Marietta Moore Fellowship Hall. The church, like many others, faced challenges with the COVID-19 pandemic, and Pastor Patton resigned in April 2021.

In July 2021, Rev. James M. Jones was asked to serve as Interim Pastor and was soon voted in as the new Pastor. Under Pastor Jones and Deacon Glenn Moore, a massive effort to clean up and restore the building began, aided by other district churches and donations. Despite a major setback from a burst water pipe in February 2022, restoration work continued. Pastor Jones has focused on spiritual growth, adding new ministries like Discipleship and Missions, and has led extensive major renovations to the church edifice, including new HVAC, roofing, carpeting, lighting, and a remodeled basement with new bathrooms. The UMBC was also restored to Good Standing with the State of Missouri.
